hours, although he appeared fresh when he reached the field.

Annoyed by Wait.
 The long wait for plane time visibly affected him. He sat in the offices of the Robertson Corporation, which handles the St. Louis airmail, picking up magazines, glancing at them a moment, and then putting them aside. He consulted his watch frequently.

Just before taking off he posed for cameramen, this being the first chance the photographers had at him since he landed from St. Louis last night.

Ignored "Pay" Talk.
 In a short interview before the take off Col. Lindbergh told The Associated Press that his hurried departure from the landing field last night was due to his desire that the mail be not delayed by any demonstration.

The reporter asked him if, in going back for a single round trip on the air mail route he was to travel regularly, he was to receive the regular pilot's pay. To this the Colonel replied that he had "never thought to make those arrangements."

Col. Lindbergh devoted several moments to careful inspection of his back just before he stepped into the plane.

favor by both groups, with Emmerson-Deneen support certain.

Some Out in Cold
 These slates, which inherently are subject to change without notice, leave a number of candidates for important state offices out in the cold.

Charles W. Vall, clerk of the Supreme court and a long Deneenite, declares he is in the race to stay, and is conceded some strength. Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, first candidate to file for Secretary of State, has made an extensive campaign through the state and also declares he is in to stay, "despite party manipulations."

Still another candidate for Secretary of State apparently decided at the last moment that he would not be left without the pale. Hal W. Trovillion of Herrin, editor of several weekly newspapers and member of the Illinois Commerce Commission, filed at 11:30 o'clock last night, after having announced that he would withdraw.

Trovillion was one of the most active campaigners before the opening of the lists, obviously proceeding on the assumption that he would draw the support of both Governor Small and Mayor Thompson of Chicago.

When their slate was announced, however, with Judge Genzel of Chicago holding the coveted position, Trovillion announced that he would not be a candidate.

Filing of his petition was the most unexpected development in the waiting hours before the time for filing expired.

Hadley Unaffiliated
 Charles Hadley of Wheaton, for a time the only other aspirant for the attorney generalship, is another who has not announced his affiliation with either group. He is, however, anti-Small.

Classified among the miscellaneous were several late filers, including Eugene McCaffery, Chicago, for Governor; Carl P. Mueller of Chicago for Secretary of State; I. J. Brown of Chicago for Treasurer; John P. Tyrrell, Chicago, for Attorney General; James B. Richmond of Chicago and Ward P. Whitlock of Springfield for Auditor; Theodore Smith of Chicago for Lieutenant Governor; Truman Johnson of Rockford and Edward E. Miller of East St. Louis, for Treasurer.

The democrats, by virtue of a get-together, will present a primary slate largely harmonious, headed by Judge Floyd Thompson of the supreme court for governor and Anton Cermak of Chicago for senator.

As another development in the political situation, William J. Stratton, Emmerson's choice for Secretary of State, was to present his resignation as director of the State Department of Conservation to Governor Small in the immediate future. While Stratton has made no announcement of this purpose, he made no effort to hide his chagrin when the Governor failed to endorse his candidacy. As an administration appointee, his place on the Emmerson ticket would be incongruous without his resignation. Stratton, at his home in Waukegan, was not expected to return until Wednesday.

ELEVEN MINERS TRAPPED DURING NIGHT BY BLAST

Rescue Parties Entered Pittsburgh Mine This Morning

BULLETIN.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 21—(AP)—An isolated section of the Kinlock coal mine, scene of an explosion last night, in which three men were known to have been killed and eight others trapped, probably claimed two additional lives today when five men, uninformed of the blast, attempted to go to work and were overcome by deadly gases.

The five had entered that section of the mine known as the "Brick Yard," several miles away. Gas from the first explosion had kicked back into these tunnels, and two of the five, about a mile inside, were overcome and were believed to be dead. Three others escaped on a mine car drawn by a mule. As the animal pulled the car to the mine mouth, it collapsed and died.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 21—(AP)—Two bodies had been located and one miner found alive early today in the Kinlock mine of the Valley Camp Coal Company, at Parnassus, north of here, where an explosion trapped eleven men last night. This was reported by J. S. Bryson, mine safety appliance man of Parnassus and formerly connected with the United States Bureau of Mines, who penetrated the mine a mile and a half as a member of a rescue squad.

Bryson said the bodies were badly mutilated, indicating an explosion of great strength. The man found alive was apparently not badly hurt, he said, but was unable to talk when brought out. The bodies found at "Six Face," a mile in the workings, were not disturbed, the rescue workers pushing onward.

At "Fifteen Right," a mile and a half in the mine, to which point the squads had penetrated when Bryson came out, the safety appliance expert said a roof had fallen and there was considerable water. He also said there was a large percentage of carbon monoxide in the air.

There were no signs of fire, as first reported, he added.

Bryson and two other rescue men were forced from the mine to change their breathing apparatus, having entered at first with masks which were found to give inadequate protection. They planned to go back after breakfast wearing oxygen masks.

John H. Schweinberg, superintendent for the Valley Camp Company, said a check-up had shown that 16 men were in the mine at the time of the explosion. Five escaped, he said.

Stitch and Chatter Club Held Meeting

The members of the Stitch and Chatter club held a very pleasant meeting Thursday afternoon with Mrs. W. E. Thurm. Mrs. William Randall was a newly accepted member in the club, joining Thursday. Music and sewing occupied the happy hours. Refreshments were served at the close of the pleasant afternoon and the members dispersed to meet again in their next meeting with Mrs. F. E. Wirth of Douglas avenue.

Attorney Gannon Addressed Women

Attorney Martin J. Gannon addressed the women employees of the Illinois Northern Utilities Company at their regular monthly meeting held at the Company office Wednesday afternoon, February 15th. His subject was "Government in Business." His talk was greatly appreciated and gave the employees much food for thought. He cited many examples and explained the plan fails.

The balance of the program was given to a general discussion of the subject, each employee contributing by quoting prominent men, newspapers, etc.

The meeting was followed by a supper and bridge party at which Miss Milla Winkler and Mr. Ralph Salzman were awarded prizes.

Miss Helen Finney and Miss Hazel VanBibber were in charge of the affair, acting as chairman and secretary, respectively.

Enjoyable Birthday Party on Saturday

Miss Dorothy Alleen Stauffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Stauffer of 313 E. Fellows street, celebrated her ninth birthday Saturday by entertaining sixteen of her girl friends from 3 to 5 p. m. The young hostess received many pretty remembrances from her guests and all present agreed that the time passed altogether too quickly in their games and guessing contests. Prizes were awarded in the guessing contests and a special favor was given each guest. Mrs. Stauffer, assisted by Miss Val McFadden, served dainty refreshments, after the children had been seated at the table, which was beautifully decorated in pink and white. The guests, many happy birthdays to come.

Farewell Party For The August Burhenns

A company of about 25 friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. August Burhenn, 524 Ottawa avenue last evening, forming a farewell party. Mr. and Mrs. Burhenn will move from Dixon about the first of the month to a farm southeast of Natchua. Cards formed the diversion of the evening and at a late hour the hostess served a delicious luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Hill Happily Honored

The spacious and beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Gehant on East Second street, was the scene of a happy gathering of relatives and friends Friday evening, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hill, recently married. A tempting picnic supper was served at 6:30 on little tables in the dining room, which was prettily decorated with white wedding bells and streamers of red and white. The bride and groom were seated at the large table, for which the centerpieces were the bride's and bridegroom's cakes, the table being decorated with fuchsias, ferns, red candles, a miniature bride and bridegroom, and St. Valentine's motifs.

After the supper a miscellaneous shower was tendered the newlyweds, the appropriate verses accompanying the gifts being read by Mr. and Mrs. Hill, and causing much laughter. The varied gifts will prove useful to the recipients, who voiced their appreciation and thanks to the donors in gracious manner.

The rest of the evening was spent in listening to radio music and with games, the guests departing at a late hour after wishing Mr. and Mrs. Hill much success and happiness in their married life.

Says Every County Should Have Solon

Quincy, Ill., Feb. 21—(AP)—Mrs. Mary C. McAdams, representative in the Illinois General Assembly from the 36th Senatorial district, believes that each county in the state should have at least one resident member of the legislature, she said today in announcing her candidacy for reelection.

Mrs. McAdams declared that she would favor a constitutional amendment to the effect that each county have a resident member of the legislature, irrespective of senatorial district boundaries; and that no county

Sublette Woman's Club Meeting

The regular meeting of the Sublette Woman's Club was held at the Union church Thursday afternoon, with the House committee in charge of an interesting program, with Mrs. George Henrich as leader. The theme for the meeting was National Playgrounds and Games of Different Countries and papers on the different phases of the subject were read by Mrs. Henrich, Mrs. Reiser and Mrs. Oester, all of whom emphasized the importance of well equipped playgrounds and supervised recreation. The members responded to roll call with bits of history concerning National Parks and places of public recreation, and after the program the House committee served a very unusual luncheon. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Misses Christine and Anna Erbes.

Life's Niceties

HINTS ON ETIQUET

1. What is the surest way to prevent children from being quarrelsome?
2. What is one of the first rules of etiquette that should be instilled in young minds?
3. How can children be taught never to bully servants?

The Answers.

1. By example. Grown-ups in a home should never lose their tempers or create a scene.
2. Courtesy towards those in an inferior position.
3. If parents are always fair to servants and keep their tones courteous, children will follow suit.

MENU for the FAMILY

BREAKFAST — Oranges, cereal, cream, crisp toast, creamed dried beef, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON — Cream of chicken and rice soup, lettuce sandwiches, canned peaches, hot water sponge cake, milk, tea.

DINNER — Browned chicken, celery sauce, mashed potatoes, asparagus salad, cranberry sherbet, sponge cake, milk, coffee.

Cream of Chicken and Rice Soup — Four cups chicken broth, 1-2 cup rice, 1 cup heavy cream, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Wash salt through many waters. Bring broth to boiling point and add rice. Cook in double boiler for three hours. Add salt and pepper. Remove from heat and stir in cream whipped until stiff. Serve very hot.

This is a nourishing delicious soup ideal for luncheon but too rich for a dinner menu.

Lincoln and Washington Were Honored

The Daughters of the American Revolution celebrated Washington's and Lincoln's birthday at their meeting at the home of Mrs. W. H. Smith Friday, Miss Jennie Laing and Mrs. R. W. Sproul assisting the hostess, and Mrs. Smith having charge of the program.

The first number was by the orchestra, composed of Miss Gertrude Nesbit, Miss Eva Lawton, Ned Smith and Dale Smith, with Mrs. Smith at the piano. They played three very pleasing selections, followed by roll call, led by Mrs. R. W. Sproul, to which members responded with quotations from the two great Americans whose birthdays were being observed.

Mrs. Lester Wilhelm sang most charmingly a group of solos, in which she was accompanied by Mrs. Lloyd Davies. Mrs. A. G. Burnham gave a reading, "Our Flag," standing under the banner as she gave her inspirational selection. Mrs. L. B. Potter followed with a solo, "The Flag," after which the young ladies of the orchestra appeared in Colonial costume, representing Washington, Mrs. Washington and a friend. Mrs. Smith was attired as a Quaker, and all were charming in their costumes and delighted all with their rendition of selections for the stringed instruments. Miss Lucille Morris was also attired in appropriate costume. The program was thoroughly enjoyed by the members and Mrs. Smith was given hearty congratulations on the success of the meeting. During the social hour tasty refreshments were served.

Dorcas Society in Happy Meeting

The members of the Dorcas Society of the Congregational church met in the church parlors Thursday afternoon with nineteen members and ten guests present. The meeting opened with a hymn, in which all joined, after which the devotionals were conducted by Mrs. M. D. Richardson, who talked of God's love for His children. Mrs. H. Heckman read an interesting poem, "Our Dorcas Society," and during the business meeting which followed arrangements were made for a doughnut sale Thursday, Feb. 23, and a bazaar and food sale Saturday, March 31. A social hour followed. Mrs. Adam Forman, Mrs. B. Rippeon and Miss Orpha Harris being the hostesses, who served refreshments.

QUIN RYAN WAS GUEST-SPEAKER FOR PHIDIANS

Announcer of WGN in Interesting Talk Here Last Eve

Quin Ryan, announcer at radio station WGN, Chicago, was the feature of the Phidian Art Club "guest night," at the home of Mrs. Eustace Shaw and Mrs. George B. Shaw in Bluff Park, last evening, with Mrs. H. A. White assisting in entertaining. There were 150 present, members of the Phidians, and their guests.

Mr. Ryan was introduced in a few gracious words by Mrs. George C. Dixon, president of the Phidians, after which he stepped forward to greet his audience for the evening, holding the interest of all in his two hour talk, just as easily and naturally as he does every evening over WGN. He is a young man of medium stature, black hair, dark blue eyes, has a small dark mustache, and a glowing complexion which any girl could envy. He wears horn rimmed glasses and appears much like a professional man, a lawyer, a doctor, or maybe a newspaperman, which he was, and is. He has been with the Chicago Tribune for the past six or seven years in various capacities in many different departments, but from the time he "covered" his first football game for the radio, they have held him to radio announcing. His voice is even more pleasing in conversation than in radio conversation.

In announcing Mr. Ryan says he just steps in front of "Mike" and talks; he does not even think of his immense audience, if he did he "would be scared to death." And he does not know the first thing about the mechanical side or phase of the radio, and of all his work he enjoys most his time spent with the children, that most inspiring hour enjoyed by old and young alike, the "children's hour," between the dark and the daylight, when the night is beginning to lower." In speaking of the animals familiar to all in this hour, Mr. Ryan told how he started to use them. He stepped one day into the studio and while talking to the children he picked up a whistle left there by a trap drummer who went away and never came back, and who left beside his whistle, several other appliances, such as the "Cuckoo," and the electric "choo-choo" train, etc. He incorporated "Jumbo," much loved of the children, the make-believe elephant, and the dog which barks. Mr. Ryan told of the pleasure this hour gave him, showing his innate modesty, for he never seemed to be aware of the intense pleasure which this hour gives the children and others. He receives an immense mail and the mail which he reads personally is that from the children. Five hundred letters each day is an average amount of mail arriving at WGN.

Unusual incidents in connection with the mail were related, including

MARDI GRAS QUEEN

Carnival Queen of New Orleans and its colorful Mardi Gras is Miss Betty Watson, society beauty of the southern city. Her selection was not a surprise, for she already has ruled over many a carnival ball. This year she will share her throne with Leon G. Irwin, New Orleans business man, who has been chosen King of the Mardi Gras.

the letter he receives almost daily from the blind man, who is an excellent penman, and who folds the paper in small squares, the size of the word, as he writes; also the cheerful woman who has been bedfast for thirty-eight years, and who wrote him recently the sad and beautiful message he read last evening, blessing him for the sunshine he brought to her each day; and he spoke of the little girl living on the shores of a lake, several hundreds of miles from Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, who has seen no white child, who wears snow shoes when she goes out of doors, who writes him regularly and he mentions her name and greets her once in a while in his radio talks. Think of the cheer he gives lonely hearts in his many talks many times each day; his gospel is just the "are of being kind." No wonder the children love "Uncle Quin," and confide in him in their letters written in childish scrawly hands, uphill and down vale on various and sundry stationery. He loves children, that is certain, even if he does say they "scare him to death." He understands them and they understand him, therein is the secret of their mutual attraction, and no one can hope to have higher praise than the approbation of a little child.

Of great interest to all was Mr. Ryan's announcement that "Sam and Henry," one of the most popular features of WGN station, would no longer be with them nor any radio corporation, that they, Sam and Henry, had entered theatrical life and were connected with a New York theater. In answering questions Mr. Ryan also gave the information that "Sally" of the very musical voice, who used to read the Tribune with "Quin" each evening, was a member of a theatrical company playing in Chicago and for a while her engagement on the stage allowed her time to broadcast, but that has been changed and she can no longer read the news and ads with Mr. Ryan, who confesses naively, that when Sally is not with him he "is less distracted," paying full tribute to the young lady's charm.

Mr. Ryan talked at some length on pronunciation, and English, and gave different versions of various words, quoting from an article in Liberty, which can cause endless discussion, such as "tomato," "Tunney" etc. Mr. Ryan also said that he received many letters criticizing some of his pronunciation of different words, naming three or four,

BRIDGE ME ANOTHER

BY W. W. WENTWORTH

(Abbreviations: A—ace; K—king; Q—queen; J—jack; X—any card lower than 10.)

1.—When you hold three honors in sequence, two in hand and one in dummy, what honor should be played first?

2.—When you hold: spades—X X X; heart—10 X X X; clubs—X X X; diamonds—X X X, what should you bid in answer to partner's informative double of opponent's one-heart bid?

3.—First hand bids one no-trump. Second hand bids two hearts. Third hand doubles. Is double informative or business?

THE ANSWERS

- 1.—One from the hand.
- 2.—Two clubs.
- 3.—Business.

"apparatus," being one, and he stated that he pronounced the word in manner he does "because I want to." He says that many of us pronounce words incorrectly when we know better, and nothing is truer.

Some of the gentlemen present asked him his opinion of the Dempsey-Tunney fight, and he was so close to the canvas that his nose was flattened and he says that from almost the first count Gene Tunney could have risen and started in again; that all through the contest it was patent to any observing eye that Dempsey from the first round was beaten, that he looked badly all the way through the match, worried and battered; that Tunney's hair was not even mussed in the "fracas." Mr. Ryan calls an event which is well situated for radio work, "a good show." He mentioned his work in the Stokes trial in Missouri where he had the pleasure of meeting H. L. Mencken, the well known and much debated writer. He spoke of the Army and Navy football game last year and of many sporting events.

He told of many interesting details and subjects which space forbids enlarging on, but Mr. Ryan's address was one of intense interest from first to last, and everyone present was glad to have the opportunity of listening to this charmingly modest and fascinating talker. It is hoped and half promised that Mr. Ryan will again visit Dixon. He voiced his pleasure in his visit and complimented Dixon and her people. The guests were glad to greet Mr. Ryan after his talk and thank him for the pleasure he had thus afforded.

Delicious refreshments were served in the dining room, where Mrs. S. W. Lehman, Mrs. H. U. Bardwell, Mrs. G. C. Dixon, Mrs. A. W. Chandler, Mrs. W. C. Durkes, Miss Jean Hitchcock, and Mrs. Frank Rosbrook assisted in pouring, and a delightful social hour followed. Two delighted and happy young folks during the evening were Georgiana Shaw and Dick Durkes, who quickly made friends with the guest of honor, their radio idol.

WERE DELIGHTFULLY ENTERTAINED AT DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Durkes entertained at a delightful dinner last evening in honor of Quin Ryan, noted radio announcer from WGN, the guests including Mrs. H. A.

White, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Shaw, Mrs. Eustace Shaw, Rev. and Mrs. J. Franklin Young, Mrs. Harry Lager, Harry Roe, and Georgiana Shaw. A lovely floral centerpiece graced the exquisitely appointed table. Mr. Ryan addressed the Phidians and guests last evening at the Shaw home in Bluff Park.

ENTERTAINED AT DINNER SATURDAY EVENING

Mrs. Tom Richards entertained at dinner Saturday evening, Mrs. L. L. Edson, of Evanston, being an out of town guest.

Birthday Surprise For Helen Fish

Miss Helen Mae Fish was happily surprised Friday evening at her home, by a company of young friends who called to assist her in celebrating her birthday. A pleasant evening was spent in games and music and delicious refreshments were served and at a late hour the guests departed wishing Miss Fish many happy returns of the day.

THE EYES OF THE BRAVE.

When Commander Richard E. Byrd sets out on his airplane jaunt to the south pole next fall, he will be running into dangers as great as a man can find in this carefully regulated age.

Yet he is having no trouble recruiting companions. On the contrary, more than 200 men have written him asking for places in his expedition. There is no doubt that, if he wanted to, he could raise a force of 10,000 almost overnight.

Much of this is probably due to the nature of his projected trip. There is a fascination about polar exploration, a fascination that must date back to childhood days, when we read thrilling tales of hardy voyagers who were locked in the ice for months on end, and who struggled ashore over treacherous ice floes and made their way to civilization after incredible hardships.

But more potent than that, probably, is the glamor that has invested Byrd himself.

In the middle ages, great heroes—all great heroes were warriors in those days—swiftly gathered around them numbers of ambitious fighting men. There was a sort of common agreement that a man could get the most out of life by attaching himself to some famous fighter, sharing dangers with him and, as it were, imbibing with him the same sharp zest that life gives to the adventurous.

It seems as if the same sort of motive were active now.

For they are glamorous men, these Byrds and Lindberghs and Chamberlins. It would seem that they have found some secret that the rest of us have not discovered. They must have clearer eyes than the rest of us, so that they can see clearly that the great prizes of life are not peace and soft contentment, but danger and hardship and the peril of sudden death.

Length of days does not seem to interest them greatly.
They prefer to concentrate their lives into brief episodes; by risking greatly and daring greatly, they know that they will live intensely and fully. The highest gifts of life, for them, do not flourish in crowded cities or in peaceful, sunlit valleys; rather they are to be found in the darkness, in the cold, over the ocean or down under the world in the land of eternal ice.

And who can say that these men are wrong? Perhaps the 200 young men who asked Byrd for permission to accompany him to the south pole were wiser than we think. To face the ultimate realities of danger and hunger and death; to face them voluntarily, with a smile, for no prize but the consciousness that one's manhood is being tested; this, perhaps, is as good a way to use life as can be found.

DUELS WITH BOXING GLOVES.

It does seem as if romance were dying out swiftly.
The other day in Paris, two upper-class Frenchmen got into an argument that could only be settled on the field of honor. One challenged the other to a duel. The challenge was accepted, seconds were appointed and the usual arrangements were made.

But the weapons—ah, hearken! The Frenchmen fought, not with swords, nor even with pistols, but with—boxing gloves! They fought, we read, five rounds before they decided that honor was satisfied.

We submit that the world has come to a pretty pass when things like that can happen. To be sure, a duel with boxing gloves is ever so much more sensible than a duel with swords or pistols. But who in thunder wants to see duels conducted with common sense?

Romance is dead. All that remains is to open D'Artagnan's grave and see if he hasn't turned over.

A WAY OUT FOR THE FARMER.

Where are America's farmers heading? Toward a new prosperity—or toward peasantry?

Speakers at the meeting of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation the other day seemed worried over the farmer's outlook.
Prof. W. E. Dodd of the University of Chicago was pessimistic, asserting that neither the farmer nor his friends "seem able to check the downward drift of agriculture."

Not so gloomy was L. B. Palmer, president of the federation. The farmer, he asserted, "must become well versed on all basic problems, not only of production but of marketing, purchasing, legislation and home and community development." In this way, he predicted, the farmer could win a new prosperity.

We're inclined to think his view is the right one. The farmer has a rather tough row to hoe, to be sure; but there seems little reason to suppose that industry, scientific management and careful planning will not see him through it.

If you don't think America is the land of the free, look up the number of divorces granted last year.

Kansas City reporters who wanted to interview Frank O.
Lowden in his train at Kansas City found him still abed at 9
a. m. And here we'd been thinking Frank was a farmer.

Cuba is a body of land entirely surrounded by troubled waters.

Lindbergh, cagey, refuses to be caged. He knows he can't see the world from the cockpit of a roll-top desk.

THE THYMITES

STORY BY MAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"Now don't be scared," the Balloon King said. "Blow up these balloons. Go right ahead. Just take a good deep breath and it's as easy as can be. I'll stay here till you do it right, and then I'll disappear from sight, 'cause after you have blown them up, you surely won't need me."

"All right," the bunch heard Scouty shout. And then the Tinsies started out to do just as they had been told. My, what a funny sight. Each Tiny blew his balloon up high. Wee Clowzy said, "Oh, me, oh, my!" And then the Balloon King added, "That is fine. You're doing right."

"And now I'll leave you to your fun. I'll come back when the day is done, and in the meantime, help yourselves to all the thrills you can." "Oh, thank you," all the Tinsies cheered. And then the queer man disappeared. Said Copsy, "It's too bad he's gone. He is a dandy man."

"Oh, look," cried Scouty, "my balloon will be a playmate pretty soon."

It has a head and little feet, and very funny face. This sure will be a happy day if they will come to life and play. Let's see who blows his balloon up first. We'll have a little race."

Then one balloon said, "Howdy do. We're glad we've come to play with you. Please blow me up a wee bit more. I think I am too thin. There, that is plenty. Not too high, or I'll go floating to the sky. 'He's come to life,' yelled Copsy, and this made the whole bunch grin.

One fat balloon then danced around and did queer tricks upon the ground. "I'm pretty good at this," it said. "Though I don't like to brag. As soon as we're all blown up high, I know a stunt that we can try. Let's all play nice together in a little game of tag."

women did not do once upon a time. And the way to get on in business has changed too. The other night Alan asked me to doll up in my scantiest evening dress because we were going out with the Driscolls. He's trying to land a contract from Driscoll and if he'd followed father's rule of early to bed he would have a swell chance, wouldn't he? As it was we hurried a real party after a show and gave the D's a thrill. They're out-of-town people, you know.

He enjoyed it but she was kind of quiet. She's awfully dowdy, too. You'd think the wife of such a prominent man would have more class. Well, I hope Alan closes the deal. The party cost enough!

With all my love,

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

President Will Meet

Rival in Taciturnity

Livingston, Tex.—(AP)—President
Coolidge will meet a rival in taciturnity when Sun-Kee Mikko, new chief of the Alabama Indians, calls at the White House.

Mikko, who gave newspaper men a two-word interview when he was inaugurated as the head of the people who once dwelt in the forests of Alabama, will go to Washington February 24 to intercede with the president for financial help for the small band of Indians. The Ala-bamas are poverty-stricken due to the fact that their reservation is restricted to only two sections of land.

When reporters asked Mikko what he had to say as spokesman for his tribe, the chief pondered a while,
and then answered:
"Nothing."

Still persistent, the reporters asked him what he thought of the world in general. The old chief again pondered, and finally replied:
"Cold."

Thus ended the interview, which was also the shortest inaugural speech ever made in Texas.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

Holy Cross Youth Sprints to Fame

New York, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Unheralded and unsung, J. P. Quinn, of Holy Cross College, has sprinted into the forefront of America's dash men. Competing against a crack field in the special 60 yard sprint at the New York A. C. games last night, Quinn captured his heat in record-equaling time, won the semi-final and final.

Arrayed against the Holy Cross Star were Al Miller, of the Boston A. A. Karl Wildermuth, Georgetown, Roland Locke, of the University of Nebraska, Fowell Scull, of the University of Pennsylvania, Jackson Scholz, of the New York A. C. Frank Hussey, of the same club, and Quinn's teammate, Jimmy Daley.

A wild burst of speed gave Quinn the first heat in six and one-fifth seconds, equalling the world's record set five years ago by Loren Murchison. Hussey trailed the flying collegian by a few feet. Going into the finals against Miller, Wildermuth and Scull, Quinn again showed his heels to the field but his time was two-fifths of a second back of the record. Wildermuth was second and Miller third.

Locke, making his bow to eastern track fans, placed second in his heat but was shut out in the semi finals.

Urban Shocker, Yank Star, Has Quit Game

Okmulgee, Okla., Feb. 21.—(AP)—Urban Shocker, veteran pitcher of the New York Yankees, who recently announced his retirement from baseball, has arrived here with plans to enter an aviation school.

Shocker, who came here Sunday with his wife in an airplane, said they may remain several weeks. He made some short flights yesterday and discussed aviation with pilots at a local field.

"I'm through," said Shocker, when asked about the possibility that he might report to the Yankee camp in Florida. "Twelve years of baseball is enough for anyone."

He explained that while he hoped to enter a flying school soon, he had not definitely decided on aviation as a business career. He said his plans would remain indefinite until he completed his flying lessons. Shocker is 35 years old.

Michigan's Hopes for Title are Over

Chicago, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Purdue and Wisconsin, the two front runners in the Big Ten basketball race, kept their strides even last night by respective victories over Michigan and Iowa. Purdue, on her own floor, walloped the Wolverines 55-33, one of the most conclusive scores of the year, while Wisconsin at Iowa scored a 31-21 victory.

The tie for top place, however, will be broken before the week is ended, inasmuch as the two leaders meet each other twice—Thursday at Wisconsin and Saturday at Purdue.

The turn of events at LaFayette, Ind., last night sealed finally Michigan's hopes of repeating as Western Conference champion. Iowa's defeat was without particular significance, as the Iowa basket shooters have failed to show championship form all season.

Brief Summary of Last Night's News

IN ILLINOIS
Springfield—Charles A. Gregory of Levington filed last night for nomination for State Treasurer on the Republican ticket. Although familiar in political circles, he is not known to be affiliated with either of the Republican factions.

Assumption—Lee Johnson of Mattoon died two hours after he was knocked from a height of 20 feet by a 33,000 volt current in a power substation. He landed on a ground pipe which pierced his skull. He was drilling holes in a steel tower on the station when he came in contact with the high tension wire.

Springfield—John Oglesby will not file for the nomination of Lieutenant Governor, thereby leaving Fred E. Sterling, of Rockford, incumbent, apparently with the support of both Republican political groups.

Decatur—John Jvanaites, Chicago, was instantly killed and Mrs. Amelia Bogusch, Decatur, was fatally injured when their automobile was struck by a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train.

Chicago—Britton Budd, president of the Chicago Elevated Lines, married Miss Marie Sheehan, his former secretary, yesterday.

Galesburg—Morton Armstrong of Rio has signed to coach the Knox College baseball team. Armstrong played with Palestine in the Texas League since leaving Knox two years ago. He was a pitcher.

Paderewski's Chef is Proud of His Culinary

Chicago.—(AP)—James Copper, negro chef, has retired from Pullman employ after a quarter of a century in service of Ignace Jan Paderewski, famous pianist.

Copper is modest, but not to the point of self effacement. Once the pianist sent word to him after dinner.

"Please tell Mr. Copper the meat was excellent, the salad marvelous

REED CONTINUES TO PLEAD UNIT- ED DEMOCRACY

He Refuses to Discuss Candidacies of Any of Party

Dallas, Tex., Feb. 21.—(AP)—In the fight for the "united and militant democracy" which he demanded here last night to bring about "the return of honesty in government," Senator James A. Reed of Missouri set out today for Tulsa, Okla., and the far west to spend his doctrine of harmony.

Opening his western campaign, the Missouri Democratic Presidential candidate told his party that first of all it must be united. He set out the platform on which he believed the Democratic party can unite and win.

"The most important question before the American people," he said, "is to drive the Republican party from power; to take this government out of the hands of bootlickers, grafters and lobbyists and to place its control once more in the hands of the American people."

Emphasizing the necessity for party harmony, the Missourian declined to discuss Presidential candidacies, "including my own," as he talked here with some of the Texas Democratic leaders.

The veteran silver-haired campaigner, who is making his first bid for the presidency, centered his opening attack on what he described as the "public plunderers" and "corruptionists" of the Harding and Coolidge administrations. He called for the "swift and sure punishment of all public plunderers, bribe givers, election corruptionists and other malefactors." He departed from his prepared address to declare for law observance and to denounce racial and religious prejudices.

Should Use Own Judgment on Hogs

Washington.—(AP)—The present poor market outlook for hogs should not, in the opinion of government specialists, influence farmers to disregard whatever natural advantages they have for pork production.

Low export demand and a heavy surplus of swine is expected to depress the industry for at least another year, but even when prices threaten to be least satisfactory the farmer must use his own judgment on whether his individual position is a mitigating circumstance, they say.

It is pointed out that the amount of available by-products such as skim milk, shattered grain, unmarketable feed products and other supplies should be considered when calculating the number of hogs to be raised.

The reason there are thirty-six columns outside the Lincoln Memorial at Washington, is because there were only thirty-six states in the Union at the time of Lincoln's death.

MANAGEMENT OF FARMS IN CORN- BORER SECTORS

Dept. of Agriculture Gives Advice for Such Farmers

(By U. S. Dept. Agriculture)

With a view to aiding farmers in the areas now infested by the corn-borer, or likely soon to be infested, the United States Department of Agriculture has published a summary of the available information bearing on the problems, giving particular attention to the lessons learned and desirable practices indicated in the 1927 campaign against this insect. This is available for distribution as Farmers' Bulletin 1562-F, "Farm Practices under Corn-Borer Conditions," and may be obtained upon application to the department at Washington.

The farmers' problems vary with the degree of infestation and with the farming practices which are the rule in the different localities. In some parts of the territory the advent of the borer will not require great changes in systems of culture. For example, where the acreage of corn per farm is relatively small, or where a large proportion is put into silos or shredded the problem of borer control is simplified, and the principal precaution is the cutting of stalks close to the ground so that the borers will be killed either by the knives of the cutting machine or by the acid formed in the silo.

At the opposite extreme are the areas where much of the corn is "hogged down," leaving most of the stalks, many broken down and scattered in every direction, making it difficult either to break or cut all of these loose for raking or burning, or to plow under. In some areas, such as northwestern Ohio, the soil is not suitable for deep spring plowing of corn stubble or stalk ground because a poor seed bed usually results and is followed by a reduced yield of grain. In much of this area, too, the small grains, wheat, barley and oats, are relatively unprofitable, and corn is the main crop. Here the usual practice is to follow corn with double disking of the ground for small grain. Experience last year indicated that if the borer was to be controlled under such circumstances the stalk breaking, raking and burning would require more than 4 hours man-labor and nearly 45 horse hours per acre, which on farms with large acreages of corn would prove a serious expense. The offset in this case is that much of the stalk clearing can be done during the late fall and winter and not in the rush season of spring.

The bulletin warns that when the corn is cut and the whole stalks are fed in the feed lot, the stalk remainders must be disposed of as completely as if they were left in the fields. This practice probably will have to be modified and most of the corn shredded or put in silos.

Where corn land can be plowed either in the spring or fall, low cutting, deep and thorough plowing that covers the stubble, and wise disposal of the stalks as roughage will keep infestation down to a degree where it is not likely to require serious modifications of existing methods. In some way, however, farmers must adopt one or another of the three optional methods of control outlined in a previous Farmers' Bulletin No. 1548-F: (1) feeding corn to livestock direct from the field, or as silage, or as finely cut or finely shredded material; (2) plowing under cleanly; or (3) burning completely.

"The actual damage to the corn crop in the eastern corn belt of the United States has been limited to such small acreages," the bulletin states, "that no pronounced shift from corn to other crops has occurred. In the Canadian areas where the infestation and damage have been heavy, there has been a marked shift from corn to such crops as oats, barley, wheat, peas, beans, hay, sugarbeets, and tobacco. In some localities over half the corn has been displaced by these crops." Whether Ohio and Michigan farmers should shift production will depend mainly on two things: (1) the advantage of corn over other crops either as a feed crop or as a crop for sale; and (2) the ease or difficulty with which methods of corn production may be modified so as to keep down the borer infestation and avoid serious commercial damage.

The general adoption of practicable methods of control such as are outlined by the State and United States students of the borer problem "should prevent serious damage to the corn crop and obviate the necessity for any general replacement of corn with other crops."

In northwestern Ohio and southeastern Michigan where a shift is most probable the crops to which farmer sturn naturally are such as oats, wheat and barley are relatively unprofitable in this vicinity. Alfalfa is more nearly on a par with corn in value per acre and would be useful on dairy farms with the use of silos as an additional control measure on the remaining corn acreage.

The department believes that Farmers' Bulletin No. 1562-F, should prove of value to all farmers in regions infested or likely soon to be infested by the corn-borer. It may be had by writing to the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Gleanings of Farm News From About the State

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Springfield—Refunds on the state gasoline tax will not be paid until after the Supreme Court hands down a decision in the test case now before it, attacking the constitutionality of the law, the state department of finances has advised.

This announcement was in reply to a number of queries from counties who wish to start work on roads with the funds. In many cases the roads are to connect existing routes, thus affording better highways for transportation of farm produce.

The court is expected to act upon the test case at the present term of court, which ends Feb. 23 or 24.

Oregon—More than 150 eggs per hen is the record made by the flock of 200 White Leghorns on the farm of John Dohlen, Jr., of Ogle county, a record about double the average for Illinois hens.

Dohlen says his success may be attributed to the use of male birds from flocks of known high records, and by careful feeding and housing the growing flock.

In five years, Dohlen has grown to maturity 75 per cent of the chicks in each brood. Besides the profits on market sales of his eggs, Dohlen also supplies eggs to a local hatchery, at a premium.

Springfield—Farm families would "live high" if they followed the canning budget suggested by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, to supply a variety of fruits and vegetables to farm tables during winter months.

This budget, worked out by some home demonstration agents, includes, not less than 574 qts. of fruits and vegetables, not to mention the incidentals of a pin of preserves and two glasses of jelly each week.

The budget is assorted as follows: Seventy-two quarts each of tomatoes, peaches and blackberries; twenty-four each of okra, sauer kraut, corn, peas, soup, plums, pears and fruit juices; forty-eight quarts each of string beans and apples; twelve quarts each of carrots and huckleberries.

Oregon—Congressman H. R. Rathbone of Illinois will make Ogle county his home in the future. He recently purchased a tract of land along the Black Hawk trail on the Rock River.

Chicago—A symposium of opinions from farm women, as to what they can do to help make the farm pay, has been completed by the Prairie Farmer. Seven outstanding ways in which the farm wife can help out with family finances were named. They include:

Raise poultry; raise a good garden and can fruit and vegetables; can and cure meat; do the family buying wisely and economically; help out children's clothing; keep up family morale by making a cheerful home.

An Illinois woman, Mrs. Bessie F. Hagie of LaSalle county, contributed the leading article to the symposium. When her husband returned from war, she said, they were heavily in debt. Her butter and egg money paid most of the living expenses and she raised geese and a few pigs to add to the family income.

Her big money making opportunity however, came when she arranged with the owner of a grocery store to

In her spare time, Mrs. Hagie cares for a fourteen room house.

Valuable Hints for Farmers and Their Good Wives

Marketing eggs by parcel post is most profitable when the producer can get a premium for day-old eggs. It also is desirable to find customers within the first and second zones in which the postage is five cents, for the first pound and one cent for each additional pound. Corrugated pasteboard cases of from one to several dozen capacity may be purchased for single sales, but with regular customers it often is desirable to get a light metal carrier which can be returned at small expense.

Farm woodland offers greater returns under skillful management. A field of two and one-half acres in Mississippi, abandoned 50 years ago as a cropping area, seeded itself to long leaf pine. The owners gave it little attention except to protect it from fire. Recently they sold the timber for $600, or a yearly income of nearly $5 an acre. If the logs had been cut and hauled to the railroad and given the attention a cotton crop would have received, the return might have been as much as $10 an acre.

The value of the McLean county system of sanitation in swine raising is reflected by results obtained by 1,213 farmers in 75 counties in Illinois. The increase in their combined net incomes is estimated at $254,730, or about $200 each. On many farms where nearly half the pigs had died in previous years from worms and necrotic infections, the same farmers raised, through hog lot sanitation, 94 percent of the animals saved at birth.

Champion Kansas Hen Has Birthday Party

Sedgwick, Kas.—(AP)—Among the birthdays to be celebrated in February is that of Miss B 122, egg laying champion of Kansas.

The White Leghorn hen, weighing four and a third pounds and owned by Coombs and Son of Sedgwick, will be the guest of honor at a series of festivals which the farm bureau will hold in various towns of the county during February.

Miss B 122 in the last year laid 318 eggs in 365 days.

SOIL TESTING- MAPPING FINDS FAVOR IN OGLE

Series of Meeting in Neighboring County
Increase Interest

Oregon—The subject of soil testing and mapping by members of the Ogle County Farm Bureau as the first step in obtaining information regarding the use of limestone for acid soils is proving to be a very interesting and helpful Farm Bureau service.

Seven meetings of Farm Bureau members have been held this winter on the subject of soil testing and five more are planned to be held during the next month. The interest in the meetings has been good and a large number of the members have availed themselves of the opportunity to secure necessary materials from the Farm Bureau for making their own soil tests.

The idea of showing the farmers how to make the tests and mapping the results was made the basis of a program of soils work by a County Committee of seven appointed to take charge of all soils work in the county. The committee consists of O. B. Schelling, Leaf River, Chairman; Ira Gaul, Brookville; Grover Coffman, Grand Detour; Fred Rolph, Taylor; John Thomas; Rockvale Claude Holmes, Lynnville, and Albertus Ritchie, Dement township.

How to Take Samples.
The meetings in this project are held in seven places in the county—two meetings in a place. At the first meeting the soil survey bulletins recently issued by the University of Illinois are distributed and explained. Information is then given in regard to how to take soil samples for testing and envelopes and charts for taking soil samples are distributed to those who wish them. At the second meeting the members who have taken soil samples for testing bring them in and make the tests under the supervision of the Farm Adviser and make maps of the tested fields showing the amount of limestone needed in all parts of the field.

C. E. Bamforth of Polo, former President of the Ogle County Farm Bureau, made the statement that he believed this soil testing service to be one of the most valuable pieces of work that the Farm Bureau has done.

In connection with this same subject a district meeting including several counties was held at Dixon February 10 at which plans were made for an improvement in the supervision of limestone purchasing by the Illinois Agricultural Association. The plan suggested at this meeting will include having the Illinois Agricultural Association bargain with limestone producing companies for the quantity of limestone that will be used by the Farm Bureaus at the best possible price leaving the Farm Bureaus to do their ordering direct and to buy limestone on the basis of quality and fineness with a differential in price in favor of Farm Bureau members. Information given at this meeting by the farm advisers from several counties showed that the use of limestone is increasing rapidly and that the subject of purchasing limestone is one of growing importance.

Farmers Support Oil Cooperative

Washington—(AP)—Nineteen associations for cooperative purchase of petroleum products owned and controlled by farmers have been set up in Illinois.

Reports to the department of agriculture show that in two years' operation sales amounted to 261 carloads of gasoline, 138 carloads of kerosene, 37½ cars of lubricating oil, 48,236 pounds of grease and 2,471 gallons of denatured alcohol.

Petroleum products are distributed through bulk-station plants and by truck-tank service to the farms. Each county association establishes enough bulk stations to serve its membership, the number varying from one to five. A standard bulk station consists of two 19,000-gallon tanks and a warehouse sufficient to accommodate a carload of lubricating oil and to house one or two trucks. As a rule, the county units do not distribute through service-pump stations, but make all their deliveries direct to the farm users by trucks.

Fourteen of the associations have joined with the Illinois Agricultural association in forming the Illinois Farm Supply company as a central purchasing agent for the local associations, most of which serve the farmers of an entire county. Capital is obtained from the sale of stock.

more than 25 years, old residents of this city say.

In many places the mud is so deep that it is impossible for a team of horses to drag a wagon or buggy through. Dairymen are forced to haul their milk to the hard roads on mud scows pulled by a team of horses with many mudholes reported that even a horse cannot get through.

Automobiles are helpless. Farmers who live on the hard roads cannot get their cars out of the barnyards to the road. If relief is not forth coming soon, many farmers will be unable to move when the regular moving date, March 1, comes around.

Funerals are being conducted under difficulties. Auto hearses can not get to the cemeteries and bodies are moved from the hard road in wagons sometimes with four horses hitched to a single wagon. One procession near here this week had fourteen wagons to carry the body and the mourners to the grave and it took them several hours to go only a few miles.

Trees for Prairies Aim of House Bills

Washington—(AP)—Need for bringing shade and fruits to the sun-burnt regions of the great plains states has been presented to congress in legislation providing for establishment of additional horticultural experiment stations in Wyoming and Oklahoma.

Bills asking appropriations for the stations suggest they be similar to the station at Mandan, N. D., and were introduced by Representatives Garber of Oklahoma and Winter of Wyoming, republicans.

Various shade, ornamental and fruit trees and such shrubs and vines as are adapted to conditions existing above the 5,000-foot contour line, would be propagated at the station for free distribution.

The Garber measure has the support of Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, who says there is need for such a station to serve Colorado, Nebraska, Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. When introducing his bill, Winter declared the capacity of the Mandan station was insufficient to serve the entire northwestern region and that there was need for a similar station farther west.

DECLARES SITES OF SMITH GRAVES KNOWN TO CHURCH

Historical of the Mormon Church Attacks 'Bid
for Sensation'

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 21.—(AP)—Branding the "alleged discovery" of the burial place of the Mormon prophets, Joseph and Hyrum Smith, at Nauvoo, Ill., as "a cheap bid for sensation and an act of sacrilege," B. H. Roberts, of Salt Lake City, assistant historian of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latterday Saints, has revealed that the final resting place had been known to the church for more than 70 years.

The statement was directed against Fred M. Smith, of Independence, Mo., grandson of the prophet, Joseph, and leader of the expedition, which a short time ago dug up the graves of the prophet and patriarch. The party at the time issued statements that the secret burial place of the famous cult leaders had been discovered, and that the remains had not been spirited away to Utah, as had been formerly conjectured.

Collaborating in the criticism of Smith by Roberts were The Deseret News, Salt Lake City publication, and Joseph Fielding Smith, historian of the Utah church and grandson of the patriarch, Hyrum Smith. They declared that as early as 1857, accounts had been publicly circulated revealing the secret burial place, and that in 1884 and 1904, similar authentic stories had been published. They deny that the Utah church had said the bodies had been removed to Salt Lake City. Roberts also asserted that "Fred M. Smith had been warned several years ago not to disturb the bodies."

Leader of Faction.
Fred, the grandson of Joseph Smith, is a leader of a faction of the church, known as the Reorganized Church of Latter-day Saints. Joseph Fielding, grandson of Hyrum Smith, is historian of the branch of the church that emigrated to Utah following its banishment in Illinois, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

"These sacred remains should not have been disturbed," Joseph Fielding Smith said. "It is a despicable act, performed only by those lacking in all the finer feelings and in whom the spirit of reverence for things held sacred and holy by all faithful Latter-day Saints does not exist. Fred M. Smith has debased himself. It is almost beyond belief that he should photograph the remaining bones of God's prophets and show them on screens to a morbid following."

Roberts termed the "finding" of the skeletons and "refutation" of the Utah claim as "ridiculous," hotly denying that the Utah church had previously advanced a claim that the remains of the prophets rested in Salt Lake City. He criticized Smith for acting without consent of the heirs of Hyrum Smith.

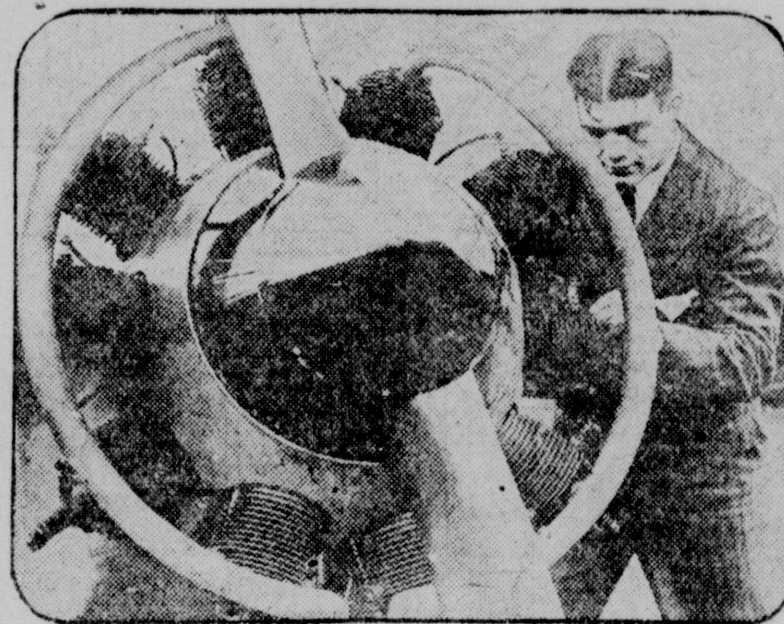

In reviewing the history of the secret burial, The Deseret News said, that in 1857, a historical account had been printed. In 1884, Roberts said that he had given the true facts of the burial in a book entitled, "The Rise and Fall of Nauvoo." Further information of the midnight burial had been widely circulated again in Account of Burial.

The historical account of the burial, first printed in 1857, described the thousands of people that streamed through the Smith home to view the bodies of the "martyred prophets." The account was in part as follows:

"The coffins were then taken out of the boxes into the little bedroom in the northeast corner of the Mansion, and there concealed and the door locked. Bags of sand were then placed in each end of the boxes, which were then nailed up, and a and the ground smoothed off, a most terrific shower of rain, accompanied by thunder and lightning, occurred and obliterated all traces of the fact that the earth had been newly dug.

"The bodies remained in the cellar of the house until fall, when they were removed to a point near the Mansion and buried side by side. The Bee House was then moved and placed over their graves."

CHARGES FORDS WITH FRAUD IN LINCOLN DEALS

Further Allegation in Suit Made by Lawyers This Morn

Pontiac, Mich., Feb. 21.—(AP)—The charge that Henry and Edsel Ford obtained the Lincoln Motor Company by fraud, is contained in briefs filed in the Leland-Ford $6,000,000 damage suit in Circuit Court here.

The accusation was made in documents entered in the record yesterday by attorneys for Henry and Wilfred Leland, who are bringing the action against the Fords on behalf of 2,040 other former stockholders of the Lincoln company. It follows in part:

"The Fords obtained the Lincoln property by virtue of their promises to us. To retain these properties and to break their promises to us, is a species of fraud. And charged with that fraud, they now seek to perpetrate it against these 2,000 plaintiffs by resort to technicalities that are not even specious, rather than, as would become an innocent man, demanding a prompt trial that they might be exculpated of the serious wrong we charge."

Briefs were asked of both sides by the presiding judge before passing on a motion by attorneys for the Fords to void the bill of complaint, which alleges that at the time the factory was purchased at a receivership sale in 1922, the Fords verbally agreed to reimburse the stockholders for losses incurred.

Presiding Judge Covert will take up the briefs for consideration Wednesday. If the court holds the Fords must answer the bill, a long drawn out legal battle is anticipated.

Him Knew of Arrival
Hour Before

Chicago, Feb. 21.—(AP)—If Col. Charles A. Lindbergh were a diary-ist after the fashion of one Samuel Pepys, and if he were chronicling the happenings of yesterday, he might have written, in truth:

Monday—Up betimes, and to the air mail field at St. Louis, Mo., were awaited a goodly throng of air mail which was to be transported by myself and five companions to Chicago via Springfield and Peoria, Ill. It was 4:25 p. m. by the chronometer when we left the ground at St. Louis, winging north and a bit east. Only a short stop was made at Springfield. At Peoria we were nearly mobbed by a crowd seeming eager to greet us.

Gave Crowd Slip
Arriving at Chicago where a goodly delegation awaited at the municipal air field, we gave them the slip right cleverly. Even the reporters and the omnipresent cameramen were left holding the bag.

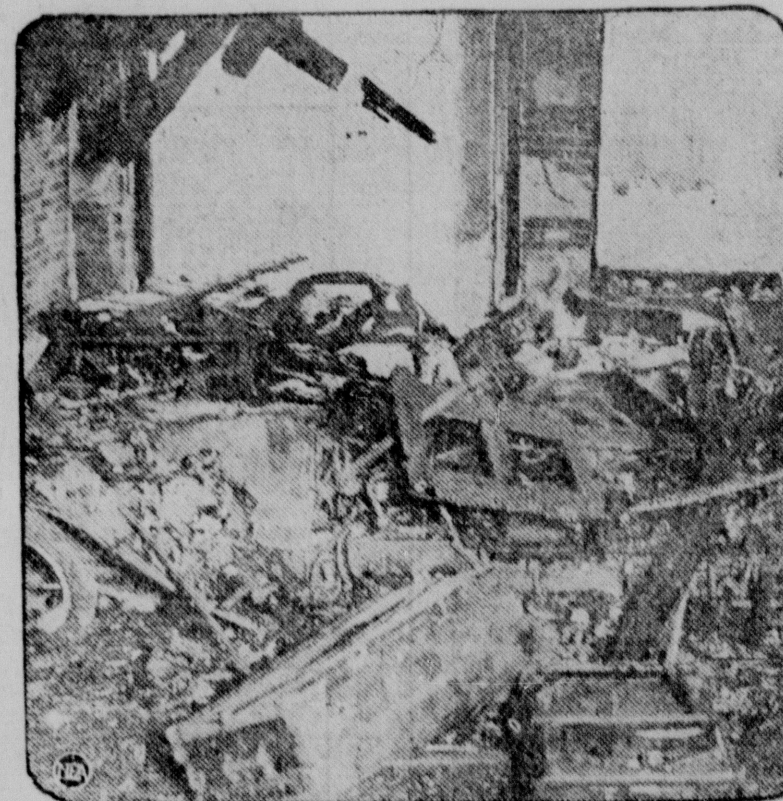

Although I descended in the little red biplane I was flying at 6:46 p. m., it was 8 p. m. before the crowd, including Postmaster Lueder, Reed Landis, the World War ace bearing a letter from Mayor Thompson, and a notable group were aware that the trip was completed.

In a mail truck with my companions I was hied to the domicile of a former air mail buddy. There we ordered dinner from a nearby restaurant and did "barracks flying," which is a term by which airmen describe their talks of air exploits. Though we discoursed long, no word was spoken of non-stop flights to Paris, good willing or such ventures. Just this and that about flying—about the old buddies.

"And so to bed."

A crowd of 5,000 persons waited at the municipal airport from dusk until the fleet of St. Louis planes had landed, but only a handful knew when Col. Lindbergh's plane slipped

Arson's Visit to Senator Johnson

Aftermaths of incendiary's unwelcome call upon the home of United States Senator Hiram Johnson at Riverdale, Md., just outside of Washington, are pictured here. They are the charred remains of the California solon's two automobiles. Who fired the garage and why are facts the police are trying to ascertain.

easily out of the blackness onto the snow-covered field.

Pushing, milling and shivering in the wind that swept the field, the crowd was difficult to handle. The arrival and departure of the man they had come to see took place so unexpectedly, however, that Col. Lindbergh was away from the field before official announcement was made that he had arrived.

Found by Reporters
So successful was the Lone Eagle in evading the crowd that only two newspapermen, one a representative of The Associated Press, were able to locate him in the modest apartment in which several of the regular mail pilots make their home.

"I'm sorry I ran away from the crowd at the field," Col. Lindbergh said. "I wasn't trying to disappoint anyone, but I was nearly mobbed when I came down at Peoria, and it was evident when I came down here that another large crowd was waiting. Someone almost certainly would have gotten mixed up in the propeller. That's why I got away as quietly as I did.

"I'm going to spend the night with my old buddies of the air mail. After we get through our chin-fest, have a bite to eat, I'll turn in, because I've got to take off on the return trip to St. Louis right on schedule—5:50 a. m."

Col. Lindbergh expressed pleasure when told that in bringing approximately 3,400 pounds of air mail from St. Louis he and his five companions had broken the tonnage carrying record. He said, as he invariably has said before, that the flying was without incident, except for the brief excitement at Peoria and a strong head wind most of the way.

NINETEENTH BOMB OF YEAR BLASTS COOK OFFICIAL

Home of Secretary

"Pineappled"

Chicago, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Chicago's 19th bomb of the year damaged the apartment building in which lives Lawrence A. Cuneo, brother-in-law and secretary of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe.

Incensed by the bombing last night, the State's Attorney offered a $10,000 reward for information leading to conviction of the perpetrator of recent bomb outrages, including those at the homes of City Comptroller Charles Fitzmorris and Municipal Judge John A. Sparbaro.

The bomb last night destroyed the entrance to the 16-apartment building in which Cuneo lives in the fashionable northside district, shattering windows in nearby places.

The Cuneos were not in the building, but other residents were routed. Previous recent bombings also have been aimed at members of the Mayor Thompson-Crowe republican political organization, including Judge Sparbaro, last Friday; Comptroller Fitzmorris and Dr. William H. Reed, a Thompson ward committeeman, January 26.

Fearing a similar attack upon the home of Mayor Thompson, Commissioner of Police Hughes ordered a police guard there. There were reports that a special grand jury investigation would be called.

Mail Flyer Takes Cold Bath

Among other things which air mail pilots must put up with occasionally are cold baths. Edgar Leety, Pittsburgh-Cleveland flyer, was leaving Pittsburgh when his motor started giving trouble. A swift descent into the icy waters of the Monongahela river at Glenwood, Pa., followed. Then a nice brisk rubdown with a towel and the air mail pilot is ready to begin his day. The plane is shown above, Leety in the inset.

CHARGES UNION OF KLAN-ANTI- SALOON LEAGUE

Former Official of Ku Klux Klan Continuing "Revelations"

Indianapolis, Feb. 21—(AP)—A picture of the Ku Klux Klan as a power-grabbing octopus, reaching across the state and union to seize political control, has been drawn for Attorney General Gilliom in a deposition by Hugh F. Emmons, former Klan Cyclops. The deposition, which required eight hours in the taking, was made yesterday.

A union of the Klan, the Indiana Anti-Saloon League and Horse Thief Detective Associations in efforts to elect candidates satisfactory to all of them, was charged by Emmons.

Emmons testified that at a South Bend Klan meeting he was told by E. S. Shumaker, Superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League, that the League, the Klan and the Horse Thief Detective Associations must "go down the line together" for Arthur R. Robinson who was elected United States Senator in 1926.

Shumaker last night said he could not recall making such a statement. He said the Anti-Saloon League was never identified with the Klan.

W. Lee Smith of Indianapolis, until recently Grand Dragon, told Emmons the Klan was formed for the intention of getting political control of the United States.

Emmons charged the Klan made lavish expenditures held orgies at road houses, ordered hate-inspiring speeches and boycotts of business and establishments in efforts to make itself powerful. He said members were initiated into the Klan on one set of principles and given another set to follow after they had taken their oath.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR OF THE BENSON MURDER CASE

CHARACTERS
PHIL VANCE, District Attorney of New York County (the "Canary")
CHARLES SKEEL, a man-about-town
KENNETH SPOTSWOOD, a man-about-town
LOUIS MANIX, an importer
DR. AMBROISE LINQUIST, a fashionable neurologist
TOBY SKEEL, a professional burglar
WILLIAM ELMER JESSUP, telephone operator
HARRY SPIVELY, telephone operator
FREDERICK HEATH, Sergeant of the Homicide Bureau

THE STORY THUS FAR
Vance believes Skeel was innocent of the murder of Margaret Odell and that he lay hidden in a closet while the stranger did his work. Markham ridicules the theory but Vance is unshaken. He shatters Skeel's alibi of being out of the city the night of the murder and forces Markham to check up thoroughly on Manix's whereabouts. Dr. Lindquist, who had died once before, is brought in again and questioned.

CHAPTER XXXII
DOCTOR LINQUIST winced and considered the matter at some length.

"And if I admit that my affection for Miss Odell was other than paternal—what then?"

Markham accepted the question as an affirmation.

"You were intensely jealous of her, were you not, doctor?"

"Jealousy," Doctor Lindquist remarked, with an air of ironic professionalism, "is not an unusual accompaniment to an infatuation. Authorities such as Kraft-Ebing, Moll, Freud, Ferenczi, and Adler, I believe, regard it as an intimate psychological corollary of amatory attraction."

"Most instructive," Markham nodded his head appreciatively. "I am to assume, then, that you were infatuated with—or, let us say, amorously attracted by—Miss Odell, and that on occasions you exhibited the intimate psychological corollary of jealousy?"

"You may assume what you please. But I fail to understand why my emotions are any of your affair."

"Had your emotions not led you to highly questionable and suspicious acts, I would not be interested in them. But I have it on unimpeachable authority that your emotions so reacted on your better judgment that you threatened to take Miss Odell's life and also your own. And in view of the fact that the young woman has since been murdered, the law naturally—and reasonably—is curious."

The doctor's normally pale face seemed to turn yellow and his long spiny fingers tightened over the arms of his chair; but otherwise he sat immobile and rigidly dignified, his eyes fixed intently on the district attorney.

"I trust," added Markham, "you will not augment my suspicions by any attempt at denial."

Vance was watching the man closely. Presently he leaned forward.

"I say, doctor, what method of extermination did you threaten Miss Odell with?"

Doctor Lindquist jerked round, thrusting his head toward Vance. He drew in a long rasping breath, and his whole frame became tense. Blood suffused his cheeks; and there was a twitching of the muscles about his mouth and throat.

For a moment I was afraid he was going to lose self-control. But after a moment's effort he steadied himself.

"You think perhaps I threatened to strangle her?" His words were vibrant with the intensity of his passion. "And you would like to turn my throat into a noose to hang me? Paugh!"

THE RIGHT WAY TO BANISH FAT

Combat a cause which modern research has discovered. Turn food into fuel and energy, rather than into fat. Supply a natural element which your system lacks. That is the method embodied in Marmola Prescription Tablets.

People have used Marmola for 20 years—millions of boxes of it. They have told others the results. Now, in almost every circle, you can see the results in new beauty and new vim. Why not learn the way to attain them?

A book in each box of Marmola tells you the formula, also the reasons for results. You will know why the effects come, and why they are beneficial. Go ask your druggist—in fairness to yourself—for a $1 box of Marmola.

Willis Reigle. Feb. 21, 28 Mar 6

He paused, and when he spoke again his voice had become clearer. "It is quite true I once inadvisedly attempted to frighten Miss Odell with a threat to kill her and to commit suicide. But if your information is accurate as you would have me believe, you are aware that I threatened her with a revolver. It is the weapon, I believe, that is conventionally mentioned when making empty threats. I certainly would not have threatened her with thuggee, even had I contemplated so abominable an act."

"True," nodded Vance. "And it's a rather good point, don't you know?"

The doctor was evidently encouraged by Vance's attitude. He again faced Markham and elaborated his confession.

"A threat, I presume you know, is rarely the forerunner of a violent deed. Even a brief study of the human mind would teach you that a threat is prima facie evidence of one's innocence. A threat, generally, is made in anger, and sets as its own safety-valve."

He shifted his eyes. "I am not a married man; my emotional life has not been stabilized, as it were; and I am constantly coming in close contact with hypersensitive and overwrought people. During a period of abnormal susceptibility I conceived an infatuation for the young woman, an infatuation which she did not reciprocate—certainly not with an ardor commensurate with my own."

"I suffered deeply; and she made no effort to mitigate my sufferings. Indeed, I suspected her, more than once, of deliberately and perversely torturing me with other men. At any rate, she took no pains to hide her infidelities from me. I confess that once or twice I was almost distracted. And it was in the hope of frightening her into a more amenable and considerate attitude that I threatened her. I trust that you are a sufficiently discerning judge of human nature to believe me."

"Leaving that point for a moment," answered Markham non-committally, "will you give me more specific information as to your whereabouts Monday night?"

Again I noted a yellow tinge creep over the man's features, and his body stiffened perceptibly. But when he spoke it was with his habitual suavity.

"I considered that my note to you covered that question satisfactorily. What did I omit?"

"What was the name of the patient on whom you were calling that night?"

"Mrs. Anna Breeden. She is the widow of the late Amos H. Breeden of the Breeden National Bank of Long Branch."

"And you were with her, I believe you stated, from eleven until one?"

"That is correct."

"And was Mrs. Breeden the only witness to your presence at the sanitarium between those hours?"

"I am afraid that is so. You see, after ten o'clock at night I never ring the bell. I let myself in with my own key."

"And I suppose that I may be permitted to question Mrs. Breeden?"

Doctor Lindquist was profoundly regretful.

"Mrs. Breeden is a very ill woman. She suffered a tremendous shock at the time of her husband's death last summer, and has been practically in a semiconscious condition ever since. There are times when I even fear for her reason. The slightest disturbance or excitement might produce very serious results."

He took a newspaper cutting from a gold-edged letter-case and handed it to Markham.

THE RIGHT WAY TO BANISH FAT

Combat a cause which modern research has discovered. Turn food into fuel and energy, rather than into fat. Supply a natural element which your system lacks. That is the method embodied in Marmola Prescription Tablets.

People have used Marmola for 20 years—millions of boxes of it. They have told others the results. Now, in almost every circle, you can see the results in new beauty and new vim. Why not learn the way to attain them?

A book in each box of Marmola tells you the formula, also the reasons for results. You will know why the effects come, and why they are beneficial. Go ask your druggist—in fairness to yourself—for a $1 box of Marmola.

Christmas lasts from December 24 (Christmas Eve) until Epiphany, January 6.

LEWIS DEFEATED
STECHEER TO WIN
WRESTLING BOUT

Outclassed Stecher in Their Title Match
at St. Louis

BY CHARLES W. DUNKLEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
St. Louis, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Ed "Strangler" Lewis of Kansas City reigns today as undisputed champion of the wrestling world.

By defeating Joe Stecher of Dodge, Neb., claimant of the title, in a three fall match at the Coliseum last night, Lewis ended the quarrel that has existed between them for seven years; since the time the "Strangler" defeated Stecher in New York in 1920.

Lewis won the first fall after more than two hours of dreary wrestling, pinning Stecher's shoulders to the mat with a bar arm, half Nelson and scissors hold on the arm, in 2:16:32. He captured the third and deciding fall in 12 minutes 50 seconds with a bar arm, or perhaps a double wrist lock. Nobody was clear on the exact hold because of the excitement in the dramatically sudden finish.

Stecher Won Second.
Stecher won the second fall in a dizzy maze of quick action, lasting only fifty-six seconds. Lewis, in a moment of carelessness, fell victim to a double wristlock and was pinned in such astonishing quick time that he was dumfounded.

In winning the second fall, Stecher who had only lost two matches in fourteen years previous to last night's defeat, showed the only flash of aggressiveness that he displayed during the entire contest. He was outgamed, out maneuvered, outtricked and outwrestled. Lewis, although past the 35-year-old mark, carried the battle to Stecher from the start. He displayed super-wrestling ability, trickiness, and courage. He won fairly and decisively, never leaving a doubt as to the outcome after the men had been on their feet for an hour.

Contest Was Dull.
The contest was dull and dreary to all concerned. It was dull for Promoter Tom Packs because the gate receipts failed to come up to his expectations. The attendance was around 5,000 with the receipts, according to Packs, around $50,000—perhaps $60,000. The prices of $5 to $25 for a ticket were the barriers to more customers.

For the spectators the match was disappointing because it lacked thrills of the usual wrestling exhibition. There were no wild exciting moments. Both Stecher and Lewis cool and collected, wrestling cautiously were "leveling" this time, neither taking any chances to produce a situation that would entertain the spectators.

They were taking no chances and giving their best. Wrestling men from all over the country, sat at the ringside viewing the spectacle of two wrestlers in an honest effort.

Lewis Showed Class.
From a wrestling standpoint in the matter of holds exhibited, science and thought displayed, Lewis is entitled to the laurels. Stecher gave no evidence of being in the match except defensively. His famous scissors hold was not employed once to an advantage and was attempted only twice during the contest. Lewis made attempts to clasp on his famous headlocks, and succeeded in punishing Stecher with them.

It was the second and third falls which gave the crowd its only thrills of the match which did not end until nearly 1:30 o'clock this morning. The second fall came after a twenty minute rest and the men had hardly started to wrestle when it was all over. Stecher grabbed Lewis by the left arm with both hands clamping on a double wristlock. He carried Lewis to the floor, sprawling all over him, and awkwardly forcing him to the mat.

Lewis Switched Attack.
The third fall came unexpectedly and without warning but with Lewis forcing the issue. He vainly tried to clasp on a few headlocks, then switched his attack to the arms and upset Stecher with a bar arm or a double wristlock. He viciously applied the leverage while Stecher, seeking to escape, moved his body to the edge of the ring and tangled his feet in the ropes. Harry S. Sharpe, the referee, was lying flat on his stomach on the canvas, watching for Stecher's shoulders to touch the mat. He did not hear the yells from Toney Stecher, brother of the Nebraska wrestler, calling upon Sharpe to order the men to the center of the ring. When convinced that Stecher's shoulder blades were on the canvas, Sharpe patted Lewis on the shoulders, signifying him as the winner.

ROCHELLE NEWS

Rochelle.—The Rochelle members of the Kishwaukee Country club will entertain the Sycamore and DeKalb members on Tuesday evening, Feb. 21, at the Elks club rooms in Ro-chelle.

The Arts Auxiliary of the Rochelle Woman's club will meet at the library Tuesday, Feb. 21, at 2:45 p.m. An appropriate and interesting pro-gram has been planned.

The American Legion Auxiliary will sponsor a card party in the hall Tuesday afternoon to which the pub-lic is invited.

The ladies Auxiliary of the Elks club held their card party Monday afternoon, Feb. 20, at 2 o'clock at the club house. The following ladies were hostesses: Mrs. C. E. Gardner, Mrs. Fred E. Gardner, Mrs. Frank Hewitt, Mrs. Charles Hanson, Mrs. S. W. Hoon.

About seventy were in attendance at the joint American Legion and Auxiliary Valentine party held in their rooms Tuesday evening, Feb. 14.

Business meeting preceded the social time at which it was voted that the Auxiliary purchase addi-tional china and silver for the kitchen. The Legion will install ad-ditional cupboards and will provide a bookcase for the club rooms. The Legion is tentatively planning on sponsoring a Fourth of July celebra-tion and the taking over of highway intersection plots at the city limits for beautifying. A speedometer test-ing strip on the pavement was also considered. Bridge and five hundred formed the diversion for the early part of the evening at which favors for high score went to Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Metlong for bridge and to Mrs. William Johnson and Walter Klewin for five hundred. Following the cards the guests enjoyed a delicious buffet lunch from a table most artistically arranged with tall red tapers at the ends and a large bouquet of red roses in the center. After the boun-tiful lunch, dancing was enjoyed.
